Then let the teacher of the Select School be employed by the two districts at the same price which is now paid him by a few of the inhabitants, and let all the scholars in the two who havemade a certain proficiency in their studies at the primary schools be admitted to the higher one. In this way every child would be placed within the reach of a good education. The qualifications for admission into the high school can readily be determined by a committee appointed for that purpose. A plan similar to this, we are confident might be adopted by a majority of the towns in this State, and the advantages to the poorer children for a good education would thereby be very much increased. It would also do away with the exclusiveness which now prevails in places where select schools are maintained, and day, our regular publication day. give to every child an opportunity to work his way up in the world, and at the same time it would

A Dream of Heaven. BY MRS. ELECTA M. SHELDON.

'Twas a cold stormy night in November 1840. The wind howled dismally around the The snow and sleet beat on the roof, ed and rattled against the windows. All without was desolate-and, though every comfort abounded in that humble home, sickness was there, and mourning and sorrow. A young wife lay on a couch of sufferingperhaps of death; a few days before, the last child of her love had been carried to its quiet resting place; and now the spirit of the mo ther seemed just trembling on the verge of time. Anguish was depicted on the face of the husband as he bent over her to eatch the accents that came faintly from her "I can not live, dearest," she murmured, "you must prepare yourself to part with me' -the heavy eyes closed-a deathly pallor overspread her countenance, and the sorrowstricken husband sought in vain, by the most powerful restoratives, to rouse her from the stupor so like death. There was no sense of external things, no motion, save the scarce perceptible heaving of the chest, to show that

A company of capitalists, many of whom were Universalists, had in their employment three or four bundred laborers, whom they had sent into a wild, unsettled region, where they had neither schools nor church privileges. At the solicitation of the president of the company, who was a staunch Universalist, they resolved to erect a church and day school house, and employ a preacher at . his own expense. They sent a man who preached for two years to convince the laborers and Abbott Lawrence, Boston. John D. At the end of that time, the Methodist conference was in session in the city in which the company resided, and the president one day made his appearance in the conference room, and requested an interview with the bishop. The bishop politely inquired the nature of the interview. The President replied :

"I want to know if we cannot hire from you, for the coming year, a real fire and brimhands in the pine woods. Our company will pay his salary, but he must promise to pour wrath and brimstone upon them the whole

The Bishop asked the reason for this singular request coming from a company, most of whom were Universalists.

Accordingly, we find it resorted to almost universally in cases of Scrofula, Liver diseases,, Salt Rheum, General Prostration of the Vital Powers, and all those tormenting diseases of the skin so trying to the patience, and injurious the health. It is a tonic, aperient and disin- ing indeed. Mrs. Betsey Streeter had been afficient fectant. It acts simultaneously upon the stom- ed with a severe and relentless cough, which re ach, the circulation and the bowels, and thus three processes, which are ordinarily the result of three different kinds of medicine are carried on at the same timethrough the instrumentality of this one remedial agent. There are many ways of releiving pain for the time being, but there is only one way of removing disease. No palliative, no anodyne no tropical application will remove it. It removed the disease and he isas free from any o must be attacked at its source, in the fluids of the its symptoms as we are. The Rev. Mark Dane had body, which convey the poison to the localities where it is developed in inflamation, sores, ulcers case may be These fluids must be reached, acted upon, purified by some powerful agent. Such an agent is Sands' Sarsaparilla, which gently stimulates while These are it disinfects and expels from the stomach and bowels all that is irrating, and at the same time restores their vigor and tone. Its great merit is that it meets and neutralizes the active principles of disease itself, and when that is gone, the symptoms necessarily disappear. The rapidity with which the patient recovers health and strength under this triple influence is surprising. Each new case in which it is applied furnishes in the result a new certificate of its excellence; and we have only to point to the accumulated testimony of multitudes who have experienced its effects to convince incredulity itself of its real value. the whole a great blessing to the church it is so: for divine truth appears best in a ple garb; and the most useful pastors been those generally, whose names have er attained to any thing like notoriety. with the power to be eloquent-using term in the popular acceptation-his ser duty would oblige him to sacrifice popul for usefulness. Comparing himself with self, that is intellectually, the minister i able to be alike interesting in his sermon Some discourses must be doctrinal-and certain class of hearers they will be ea dry; others must be expository; and be other class-those who go to church for am ment more than for instruction-these w considered tedious. Besides the minis but a man; feeling sometimes in the for study, and at other times, almost inc ble of an intellectual effort. His seden life renders him peculiarly liable to ner oppression, head-ache, and indigestion. T affect the mind, and render study at ti almost out of the question. Still he is pected to be just as interesting at one t as at another. How unreasonable! Ag He cannot always feel équally interested the delivery of bis sermon. There are su causes at work to deaden feeling, and wha has prepared with great study, may be de ered in a heartless manner. Is this u his own control? Every minister will nay. Hence, sermons that cost but little fort-delivered under a state of excitement will often be more admired and talked of, t those which cost vastly more effort, but w unhappily have been pronounced with feeling. Then again, his congregation is when he expected to see it full-or those absent for whose edification especially the course was prepared; and are not these cumstances calculated to depress the mi How then can it be expected that minis should always preach interesting and eloquity Another thing which ministers can't d to visit as much as people expect. This always be a standing charge against then Until they can get a power of ubiquity, I not how this expectation can be met. If months, or even three, sometimes elapse, t are saluted with the declaration, "Why a stranger you are; we thought you had gotten us." Now I maintain that if a mi ter, especially in a large city congregat attends to all the sick, the bereaved, and serious enquirers with great punctuality faithfulness, the rest of the congregat should accept a visit whenever it can conv iently be made.

Still another thing which ministers can't i. e., trade with everybody in the congre tion. In almost every congregation there several of the same occupation, mechanic merchants, making or selling what a minist family must necessarily consume. Now se are so unreasonable as to think that a mi ter should spend the pittance that is allow him entirely within the congregation; an a preference is given to others, it is sometime a ground of mortal offence. This expectat or obligation, as some would consider it. plies less to cities than to country towns. what shall a poor minister do-when er in his own congregation he has got to mak selection! alas for him, somebody must preferred. How nicely sometimes has he adjust his patronage for fear of giving offen Now this is slavery. Every noble mind v pronounce it such. Let the minister he some independence in these matters-spe his money where he pleases, give it away whom and what he pleases, do just in th respects, as any other man in the congre tion takes the liberty of doing. But enoug It will be evident from what has been s that there are some things which men are to expect from the minister, which he can do .- Puritan Recorder.
